Preamble

The FDP on "Reimagining Architecture Pedagogy: Current Trends and Effective Methods for Foundation Studio" aims to strengthen and enrich the teaching-learning process of the Foundation Studio, cornerstone of architectural education. The studio shapes how students perceive, interpret, and express design ideas, making it vital to revisit its pedagogy in light of current academic and professional needs.

Through sessions such as Learning the Fundamentals of Basic Design, Design-Build Studio Pedagogy, and Collaborative Pedagogies, the FDP explores creative, experiential, and interdisciplinary methods of teaching. It also emphasizes alignment with the National Architectural Curriculum and NEP 2020, ensuring relevance to contemporary educational frameworks.

Highlighting innovative approaches like "Bauhaus or Our House", "Observe-Abstract-Transform", and Integrating Regenerative Design, the program encourages educators to adopt sustainable, inclusive, and contextually grounded methods marking a paradigm shift in foundation studio pedagogy.

Objectives

- To understand the evolving role of the Foundation Studio in shaping architectural education.
- To explore contemporary teaching methodologies and innovative studio-based learning approaches.
- To identify strategies for embedding core design principles and values within early design education.
- To promote reflective teaching, continuous curriculum improvement, and knowledge sharing among faculty.

Notes

- Teachers/ architects who wish to register for the training program either under Collaborative Training Program (CTP 2022-23) or as independent individuals may do so by filling up the Google form available on the given link.
- To confirm registration, kindly upload proof of payment towards the registration fees /nomination form on college letterhead before submitting the registration form.
- Link to join the program will be shared one day prior to the program.
- This program is not for students.
- E-Certificate of said training program shall be sent via email on registered email id of participants, after successful completion of training program by participant i.e. attending all sessions and submitting all assignments, EOPT

Core Reflections

- Gain exposure to best practices and effective teaching strategies that foster design thinking, creativity, and core design principles at the foundation level.
- Develop approaches that harmonize conceptual understanding with skill-building, ensuring a holistic foundation in early architectural learning.
- Establish student-centered, outcome-based studio models that support smooth curriculum transitions and consistent implementation across institutions.
