Preamble
Architecture research is mightily important to success and ultimate viability for the Profession. Architectural research has been conducted throughout the history of Architecture. Conduct of architectural research outside the confines of specific building project is a much more recent phenomenon. Increasing pace of “Post industrial technological change has exploded the knowledge base research” for architecture profession, so that systemic investigation of situation/problem in order to generate new knowledge is most required. Over last two decades, great variety of research activity has continued. Research is gaining importance in architecture education as well as in profession in the realm of built environment. Aim of this training program is to provide an introductory guide for everyone wishing to conduct research as an aspect of built environment. This opens up a new avenue in research and helps the researcher in extrapolating the findings to the real world of practice. The objective of this five day training program is to demystify the process of research. It will focus on methodology, types of research, framing research topics, aim, objective and hypothesis, data collection, data analysis etc.
