The contribution of a teacher is crucial to the strengthening of the professional fraternity and the nation’s intellectual infrastructure. Not merely constrained to the delivery of academic content, the role of a teacher surpasses classroom boundaries to become a learning facilitator, resource developer, evaluator, guide, mentor, counselor and role model. Teachers of architecture, although from the professional field, cannot be an exception to the rule.

The program, specially designed for teachers of schools of architecture, aims to sensitize teachers about new concepts in teaching and enables the participants to develop competence in understanding recent advances in education technology, to learn to improve pedagogies and to better their interpersonal skills in order to become effective faculty.

The topics expected to be covered during the program include:

- The psychology of the teaching-learning process
- Qualities and Roles of a teacher
- The philosophy of education and theory from the field of education
- Trends of teaching in Architecture in India
- Creative teaching techniques for application in the design studio
- Overview of the design process through the inputs from education
- Models of teaching and their application to subjects in the architecture curriculum
- Creative exercises to enhance the quality of teaching in architecture
- How to handle various subjects in the curriculum of the undergraduate course in architecture.
